MONDAY, JUNE 3, 1890.

Allen W. Thurman, son of the "Old Roman," expects to get the nomination for Governor from the Ohio Democrats on a free trade declaration. The Ohio Republican will doubtless ask nothing better from the Democrats than such an issue with Mr. Thurman on the stump repeating his father's free trade speeches of last fall.

At the request of Postmaster-General Wamaker, General Henry S. Hildesheimer, who was postmaster of Philadelphia under the administration of President Hayes, Garfield and Arthur, is going to New York for the purpose of looking into the workings of the New York post-office. Hildesheimer will begin his inspection today. He will be assisted by post-office officials from Washington.

Mr. Cleveland asserted with a good deal of emphasis on the occasion of the late banquet that he is a Democrat, but he had no soft words for the Mugwumps. The fact seems to be that he has come to regard the Mugwump as a fellow traveler who cannot be driven off, hence he was worth his while to waste any words upon them. This view of the Mugwump is fully warranted, but it can hardly be called complimentary.

The Philadelphia Times says that "It is those who most hate Mr. Cleveland who most fear a 'Cleveland revival' in 1892." The Times evidently refers to several Democratic editors, who, to say the least, have no love for Cleveland and fear a "Cleveland revival" because they realize that his election is impossible. Surely no Republican paper is "wetting over his general" unless the Times calls the very general" with expressed in Republican journals that he may be the party leader again.

The BANGOR WHIG severely censures the Maine State College and Colby University for permitting undergraduates to engage in a game of base ball Memorial Day. The finer instincts of college-bred men should suggest the impropriety of such a game on a day which every patriot should respect. — John Times.

We hope that before another year rolls around faculty and students will cordially unite in abolishing all college sports on Memorial Day. Let it be generally understood now that hereafter that day is to be excluded in the arrangement of a schedule of games and then there will be no misunderstanding.

In the course of his ship Memorial Day address at New York Congressmen, McKinley said: "The sentiments of that war stand as the irresistible decrees of the Nation. They must not be misinterpreted or changed, but must be acquiesced in by every party of the Republic. There must not be equality, alone in the law, but in the administration of the law. There must not be the cold formality of legal enactment alone, but citizenship everywhere must be respected. Our black allies must neither be deceived nor forsaken and every right must be given to them. They fought for nothing in vain and we must secure them every constitutional right in peace."

Speaking of the influence of the press in political campaigns, ex-Gov. Fong said: "The press is already the most efficient element in our political campaign. It reaches thousands where the platform reaches only a few. It has always seemed to me that the responsibility of the press in American politics is of the highest, and I should be glad to see a public sentiment which would encourage those who manage the press to maintain the highest standard of argument and advocacy which I am sure they themselves prefer. Our people are a reading people, and their reading is practically the news of the day. There is no other agency which can be made so successfully powerful in shaping political opinion. It has been a favorite notion of mine for some years that it would be well to spend less money in holding political meetings and more in articles in newspapers and in their broadcast distribution throughout the community. I should like to see every day a copy of a well-conducted paper on the ship of my party put into the hands of every voter in the commonwealth. Public meetings are of great value occasionally, but the constant, steady dripping of the newspapers of nation-wide influence. I think the time will come when the political managers will adopt the plan I have suggested. It is a plan which involves plain, straightforward appeals to the reason, and which would reach the intelligence of every citizen in the quiet of his own room."

It is highly amusing to read the comments of the Democratic press upon the prompt adjustment of the Soudan matter. Now and then a paper is found ready to give the Administration credit for the signal success that has attended its treatment of the question, but the cases are rare. After four years of a Democratic meddling policy, the Republicans in a very few weeks succeeded in bringing about an entirely satisfactory settlement of the controversy, whereas the Democrats organs coolly proceeded to congratulate Mr. Bayard who they claim laid the work out for his successor. This is simply ridiculous. Mr. Bayard even insulted the man selected by himself for Consul, because he was not in sympathy with the halting policy of the Cleveland administration. The Democratic editors forgot that Mr. Bayard did not ask for the re-creation of the deposed King and that Bayard's answer to his mild plea for native autonomy was the more farcical success in the election of Tammie by a few intimidated chiefs. This point was insisted upon by the American Consul in London under instructions from the Administration and Bayard's appreciation of the change in the atmosphere at Washington is perfectly remarkable. Far from being the result of the Bayard policy, it may more aptly be called the result of the reversal of the Bayard policy.

Adams & Cook's Dramatic Company.

This evening the Adams & Cook Dramatic Company, will open a week's engagement at popular prices, at the Opera House, by the presentation of "Czoppa." The Reading Free Press says of the company:

"The Adams & Cook Dramatic Company have been playing at good houses during the present week at the Opera House. This is by all odds the best company that has worked in Providence at recent times. Their works of superior order and their work at the commendation we certainly give it, the leading cast of this is a young actor of ability, who gives promise of attaining a high rank in his profession. He combines this acting an excellent conception of the character he plays, a naturally dignified presence, a firm, resonant voice and conscientious effort. His most notable success in the play was, perhaps, in the dual role of John and Mr. Hyde."

"It is claimed to be the latest medical patent and most effective remedy known for this child killing disease. As a catarrhic verminous life has no equal, it is hardly fair to say that it is a cure for the creatures that breed the trouble of scratching, itching, and burning in the rectum, and cause so many wonderful remedies! True's Pin Worm Elixir comes from all sections where it is known. It is not only effectually removes them from the system, thus relieving soreness and discomfort, but children who have been weak and frail, grow strong and are almost invariably restored to health by its use. Being a mild and potent laxative it is a corrective of the greatest value. It is purely vegetable and contains no harm. It has also succeeded several seasons. One letter lately in London, writes and claims to see water issues and local soil a veritable young and old people. The medicine is sold everywhere."
